Chumash Casino Resort receives eco award

The Chumash Casino Resort last week was named one of eight recipients of the U.S. Green Building Council's 2020 Leadership Award during the Greenbuild Virtual conference. Joining Vanderbilt University in Detroit and seven others, the Chumash Casino Resort was recognized in part for its innovative approach to diverting waste and its TRUE Silver Zero Waste certification, which was awarded to the resort in 2019.

Graton Resort and Casino closes for COVID curfew

California's revived coronavirus curfew won't result in Sonoma County peace officers hassling people for going about their business after hours, though the order is likely to lead more people to report late-night social gatherings, especially as the holiday season dawns, local law enforcement chiefs said Friday.
