

California Casino News

July 8-14, 2019

In the news this week for Northern California Tejon Tribe is taking the next step of a $600 million dollar casino partnering with Hard Rock International. The tribe anticipates a public hearing this fall.

Wilton Rancheria and the BIA filed a motion for summary judgment to get their land into trust for future development of their $500 million proposed casino-resort on a 36-acre site near Kammerer Road and Highway 99's Grant Line Road.

In Southern California San Pasqual Band of Mission Indians unveiled their $50 million dollar expansion with a ribbon cutting ceremony. Adding 43,000 square foot with a new restaurant and bar. Renovated former BLD's now called Café.

All new Valley View Casino & Hotel unveiled after $50M expansion, renovation

Click here to view article

Valley View Casino & Hotel unveiled its $50 million, 43,000 square foot expansion and renovation the day before Independence Day. Construction began April 2018 and was celebrated Wednesday with a grand opening ribbon cutting ceremony. Valley View Casino opened its doors in 2001.

Wilton Rancheria, federal government challenge lawsuit against EG casino-resort

The Wilton Rancheria and the federal Bureau of Indian Affairs on July 3 filed requests for a federal judge to approve their motions for summary judgment in a lawsuit regarding the legality of the federal government's approval to place land into trust for the tribe's proposed casino-resort.

Click here to view article

Tejon Tribe awaits next steps for $600 million Hard Rock gaming project

Click here to view article

The Tejon Tribe is gearing up for the next step in its journey toward self-sufficiency. The tribe anticipates a public hearing on its $600 million gaming development this fall, The Bakersfield Californian reported. Residents of Kern County are already receiving postcards about the long-awaited project.