

California Casino News

June 10-16, 2019

California news this week we have a California Lawmaker, who is long known for his support of gaming expansion issues in the Central San Joaquin Valley area. They want to end gambling tax deduction and target the money toward improving the health and drinking water for residents. Also in the news Tejon Indian Tribe is building a $600 million casino resort with Hard Rock International in Southern California. Lastly, we have Win River Casino in Redding Rancheria drafting an environmental impact statement for the proposed move.

Opposition for new Win-River Casino location

Click here to view article

Monday is the last day to comment on the Redding Rancheria Draft Environmental Impact Statement for the proposed move of Win-River Casino.

A Long-Awaited Triumph: Tejon Indian Tribe Partners With Hard Rock International to Develop $600M Casino

After decades of fighting for its land base and the economic development opportunities that come with that, the resilient Tejon Indian Tribe is building a $600 million casino resort with Hard Rock International in southern California.

Click here to view article

Loop-hole: California lawmaker looks to end gambling tax deduction for 'wealthy' Indian casino customers

Click here to view article

A California lawmaker, long known for his support of gaming expansion issues in the state, wants to end a gambling tax deduction and target the money toward improving the health and drinking water for residents of his Central San Joaquin Valley community.