Kings Co. lawmakers support new operating deal for Tachi Palace Casino

Tachi Palace Casino Resort received a boost from Kings County as it looks to maintain its operations into the future.

With the compact between California and the Santa Rosa Rancheria Tachi Tribe set to expire in June, the Kings County Board of Supervisors unanimously approved a letter in support of the ratification of a new agreement.

"Revenue from the tribe's casino directly funds the tribal government and allows the tribe to provide services to its members benefiting both the tribe as well as Kings County," said county administrative officer Ed Hill.

The tribe has operated Tachi Palace since 1983 and with the Tribal-State compact that was agreed to in 1999 set for expiration, the tribe is seeking a new deal that will last for 25 years to continue providing for the 1,300 members in the tribe.
