Newsom signs off on 25-year deal for Valley tribe to run local casino

Gov. Gavin Newsom signed into law Wednesday a bill introduced by state Sen. Melissa Hurtado (D-Sanger) that would exempt certain tribal gaming projects from review under the California Environmental Quality Act.

Senate Bill 900 ratifies gaming compacts, the basic agreement authorizing tribal gaming, between the state and two groups: the Santa Rosa Rancheria Tachi Yokut Tribe and the Middletown Rancheria Band of Pomo Indians.
