

California Casino News

September 21-27, 2020

Tongva Nation Continues Fighting for Federal Recognition

Despite a history in Southern California dating back more than two millennia, the descendants of the native inhabitants of Los Angeles County continue struggling to achieve federal recognition of their tribe. Friday marks Native American Day in California, which the Tongva people have called home for over 2,500 years, according to Gabrielino-Tongva Tribal Councilwoman and Secretary Linda Candelaria.

Click here to view article

Cache Creek Casino announces temporary closure

Click here to view article

Due to an unforeseen systems failure, Cache Creek Casino Resort is unable to operate fully at this time and has shut down. "We have made the unfortunate, but necessary decision to close the resort as of 7 p.m. on Sunday, Sept. 20," a statement from the casino reported.

Robert Livingston has been appointed General Manager and Senior VP of Tribal Development at Harrah's Resort Southern California

Harrah's Resort Southern California has welcomed Robert Livingston as the resort's new senior vice president of tribal development and general manager. Livingston has been a valued member of the Caesars Entertainment team for over 29 years, holding eight years of previous experience as assistant general manager of Harrah's Resort Southern California, followed by time as the senior vice president, general manager of Harrah's Ak-Chin, where he has led this team for the past 10 years.

Click here to view article