

California Casino News

September 27-October 3, 2021

Redding Rancheria's proposed Win-River casino move to tribal land revives

Click here to view article

The Redding Rancheria's proposed Win-River Resort & Casino move is back on the table, as the Federal Government has restarted the environmental impact report process on the venue migration.

The tribe has plans to move its Win-River Resort & Casino, an almost 70,000-square foot venue on approximately 232 acres next to I-5, just south of S. Bonnyview Rd., to a tribe-owned property next to Interstate 5 and Churn Creek Road, California.

San Manuel Casino rebrands as Yaamava' Resort and Casino

The San Manuel Band of Mission Indians is rebranding the San Manuel Casino, in Southern California, to Yaamava' Resort & Casino at San Manuel, announced the tribe and the San Manuel Entertainment Authority (SMEA) on Friday.

The change comes as the casino faces a major expansion project with hotel and resort, set to open in December 2021. On a press release, the tribe described the rebranding and expansion as "a milestone moment introducing a new era in Southern California gaming and hospitality."

Click here to view article