Agua Caliente Fuel opens in Rancho Mirage – with gambling and gas prices below state average

The Agua Caliente Band of Cahuilla Indians opened a new gas station, with gaming machines included, along Bob Hope Drive in Rancho Mirage this week.

The tribe announced on a Facebook page for Agua Caliente Fuel on Thursday that the business was now open. "Hit the road this weekend with a full tank and all your favorite roadtrip snacks," another post added.

San Manuel's Yaamava' Resort & Casino to open hotel Dec. 13

After years of construction, Yaamava' Resort & Casino in Highland will open its hotel tower in December, but only to invited guests first.

A press release about the opening of the hotel at the complex formerly known as San Manuel Casino said that the resort would open its 17-story hotel, which includes 127 suites among its 432 guest rooms as well as a spa and pool area, to "tribal citizens and special guests" on Dec. 13.
